P R E F A C E.

DURING my childhood, my parents at Erie, Pa., were frequently visited by relatives from their Eastern home, which they left in 1815, to settle in the (then) Far West. On these occasions, family matters would be the ever fruitful and ever interesting theme of conversation. The few facts communicated to my juvenile mind, and the glowing earnestness of my father in rehearsing these facts, and the possibility that perhaps I might, myself, visit the scenes of that early history, laid the foundation for the settled determination on my part, to collect all the facts within my reach, and write a book about the Gunnison family. Hence, these tables and memorials. In them the public generally will take but little interest. They were written for the family.

In October, 1846, I visited New England for the first time. Subsequently I spent the summer of 1848 in visiting my relations in New England, and in collecting the materials for this book. I saw a number of very old persons, who have since passed away. From them I absorbed all kinds of information, and have classified and arranged it, as best I could. While thus engaged, Lieut. John W. Gunnison of the United States Army, was so kind as to send me all the facts of the early settlers of our name, which he had accumulated. He had purposed to write the book himself, but as he found that I had gathered more material than he, the whole material was relinquished to my hands. The book should have made its appearance soon after 1848, but I had not the means or leisure to publish it, and I contented myself with hoarding my collections, making additions to them from time to time, until now I find I must prepare the work for publication, or lose all my past labor.

I have in all cases visited the families whose memorials are here recorded, as far as practicable, and copied from their records. In a few instances they have not been produced, but in no instance have I been repulsed. In such cases names appear without dates. Town records, church records, tomb-stones, and personal interviews have all furnished me with items. Mere conjecture is so intimated.

In tracing this Genealogy, I have been successful in showing relationship existing between persons of the name, where it was so remote as to lead to the presumption that they sprang from different stocks. In two instances I have discovered numerous families of the name, who have none of the Gunnison blood in them. I explain these anomalies at the end of the book in Appendix A. The family of the Gunnisons is remarkable for recognizing relationship even in its remotest branches. And still further in all my personal acquaintance with so many persons of the name, I have found scarcely one to be ashamed of. Here are over a hundred families and their descendants numbering over a thousand persons, all traceable to the loins of one man, Hugh Gunnison, and also to one of his sons, Elihu. The former was the Adam, and the latter, the Noah of the family, for each in his generation was the head of the entire race. Richard Tucker, mentioned in 1718, as the grandson of Hugh Gunnison is the only child of any of the other of Hugh's children, that I have any knowledge of. I number by families and not by individuals, and only such as continue the name. This is thought best as a means of perpetuating the genealogy.

A few of the name, perhaps half a dozen, have fallen victims to intemperance. None have reached a higher distinction than Captain John W. Gunnison of the United States Corps of Topographical Engineers, whose name and sad fate will be remembered, as long as Gunnison's Fort stands, and as Gunnison's river flows. Except a dozen lawyers, a half dozen preachers, a half dozen bankers, the rest were or are farmers, mechanics, or business men. The lawyers all seem to become judges in the course of their lives. Perhaps there have been in all a dozen deacons, men of sterling worth, and of firm religious convictions. There certainly is something substantial in a family that can hold together for nine generations, for a period of two hundred and sixty-five years, and by means of their family records maintain their identity.

I shall esteem it a great favor to have errors pointed out, and if this attempt meets with family favor, another edition may at some future day be deemed a necessity. What is now published are the accumulations of thirty years. Since I began an entirely new generation has appeared. I have done what I could to record their advent to this trying world.

•The Genealogy began two hundred and forty years ago, when "Bro. Hugh Gunnison had his spot designated at the Mount for three heads."

Tradition informs us that Hugh Gunnison was born in Sweden, but came to America a single man, with an English Colony composed of five families, named respectively Scammons, Frost, Bryar and Raynes, two of the families bearing the same name. They reached Piscataqua harbor before there was any house in Portsmouth; i. e., before 1631, and when there were but two small huts on Great Island, now New Castle. He first settled at Dover Neck, N. H. My father had this direct from his grandfather, who was born in 1713.

I have derived the same intelligence, substantially, from other independent sources.

Public Records show that Hugh Gunnison was in Boston in 1634, and how much earlier cannot now be ascertained. On the occasion of his admission to the church that year, he was entitled "Servant to our Bro. Richard Bellingham." Now Richard Bellingham came to Boston in New England from Boston in old Engladd, where he was "Recorder," with his wife and son in 1634. He was subsequently Governor of the Colony of Massachusetts Bay.

May 25, 1636, Hugh Gunnison was made Freeman and took the usual oath, with sixty-eight others, including Mr. Richard Bellingham, Mr. John Winthrop, Sen., Mr. John Humfrey, Mr. Thomas Dudley, Will. Coddington, Simon Bradstreet, Robert Kaine, Thomas Savage, and John Higginson.

Jan. 9, 1637. In the distribution of land to the residents of Boston, there was allotted to "Brother Hugh Gunnison at the Mount, for three heads," implying that he had a wife and also a child born before 1637. (Vide Drake, p. 233.)

Nov. 30, 1637. With fifty-seven others of the best citizens of Boston, he was disarmed for the Hutchinson Heresy.

Feb. 28, 1642. He proposed "to keep an Ordinary with a Cooke's Shop."

June 14, 1642. "Hugh Gunnison haveing set up a Cooke's shop is allowed to 'sell beare to his guesstes some at 2*d* a quart, some at 1*d* a quart, being al ways to have small beare for such as desire it."

May 14, 1645. "Hugh Gunnison and Susan Hudson were denied to draw wine."

Jan. 25, 1646. His first wife, Elizabeth, died in Boston.

May 22, 1646. "At a session of y^e General Court the Deputes haveing bene comfortably pvided for and wth due attendance y^e Corte hath voted y^t Hugh Gunnison shalbe paid wth y^e first, either out of y^e custome of wines, or y^e wampum from y^e Narragansett when those bill w^{ch} are charged thereupon are satisfied and y^t his servants be allowed out of y^e treasury 20 S. for their service."

In 1646 he was duly enrolled as a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.

Nov. 4, 1646. He was licensed for Boston.

May 23, 1647. For his second wife he married Sarah, the widow of Henry Lynn. (See Drake.)

Dec. 11, 1648. He was again licensed for Boston.

Jan. 29, 1649. "Hugh Gunnison may payle in for 40 S. six foot of ground in width and twelve in length down to his sign post."

The "Book of Possessions" in Boston (see Drake), contains the following :

"Gunnison, Hugh. 1 House and Garden the St. S. E. Geo. Burden, N. E. Wm. Hudson, Jr., N. W., Wm. Ting W'd 10 (4) 1650." (June 10, 1650, probable date of his Deed.) Robert Saltonstall, gr. Hugh G. 50 A, in Salem near Mr. Downing's Farm, late the land of Richd. Walker of Salem: Deed 25 (5) 1647. In pres. of Rich. Stileman, John Bushnell and Wm. Aspinwall."

Oct. 29, 1650. "Hugh Gunnison of Boston granted unto Mr. Anthony Stoddard and Henry Shrimpton all that his dwelling house called by ye name of the King's Armes, with all that land, brew-house, barnes, stables, yards, thereto belonging, with all his furniture therein, as beds, bedding, linnen and woollen, curtains, vallence, pewter, brass, copper, tables, stooles, with his horse, cows and fifteen swine, and all his brewing vessels. And this was for considerable summes to them due. Provided, that if the said considerable summes of money due to them be paid at or before the 28th of October, 1650, and then his Deed to be void, otherwise to remain in force. Acknowledged with the consent of his wife, Oct. 29, 1650, before William Hibbins."

April 7, 1691, above Mortgage satisfied and ordered to be taken off. (Suffolk Rec., Lib. 1.f.128.)

April 7, 1651. Deed from Hugh Gunnison of Boston in New England, Vintner, and Sarah his wife to John Sampson, Henry Shrimpton, and William Brenton, all of Boston, Merchants, in consideration of £600 Sterling, for the above property, and the goods specified in an Inventory annexed in eighteen rooms, halls and closets. On record in Suffolk Records, Lib. 1, folios 135, 136, and copied here in Appendix.

“The King’s Arms Tavern formerly as early as two centuries ago was the principal place of entertainment in the town, at the corner of Col. Shrimpton’s Lane, now called Exchange St. Afterwards called States Arms Tavern, in State Street, then known as Water St.” “The ordinary where the magistrates used to diet, 1653. Owned by Henry Shrimpton, 1666.” (Shurtleff, pp. 396, 641.)

Hugh Gunnison must have gone directly from Boston to Kittery, Me., in 1651, for in that year, we find him noticed by the Grand Jury at Kittery, as follows :

“We present Hugh Gunnison for neglect of enclosing up his copper or Furnace, after notice given him of the danger, whereby a man fell and was scalded and died the next day ensuing, by means whereof he was buried without a coroner’s inquest.”

He is mentioned in Genealogical Register, VIII., 61, as being in Kittery on Sept. 22, 1652.

Nov. 16, 1652. Hugh Gunnison and forty others, including Wm. Hilton, Charles Frost, Nicholas Shapleigh, Humfrey Chadbourne, and Thomas Withers (early settlers of Dover, N. H.), appeared before the Commissioners at Kittery and submitted to the Government of Massachusetts Bay in New England. (Gen. Reg. III., 192.)

Nov. 20, 1652. The Town Commissioners in Kittery were Hugh Gunnison, Bryan Pendleton, and Thomas Withers. The licensed Innholder or Ordinaries were John Davis of York, and Hugh Gunnison of Kittery. The latter was "required to pay only 20 S. the butt for his license to sell wine and Strong water."

Dec. 16, 1652. "Three Hundred Acres of Land were granted to Mr. Hugh Gunnison."

May 18, 1653. Hugh Gunnison was appointed Judge of Common Pleas with Brian Pendleton and Thomas Withers. He was also this year Representative to the General Court for Kittery.

Aug. 24, 1653. "Granted to Mr. Hugh Gunnison a little island within Spruce Creek on the West side, Ram Island, excepting any former grant." (Kittery Town Records.)

In 1654, he was Representative to the General Court for Wells. (Date, May 3, 1654.)

May 3, 1654. "In answer to a petition of Hugh Gunnison, and the case respecting him and Capt. Shapleigh, and the late Court held at York, it is ordered, and hereby declared that all Hugh Gunnison's goods shall be returned to him, taken away by execution or replevin at Capt. Shapleigh's sute and the damage and costs shall be made good according to the Judgment of Capt. Richard Walden and Mr. Valentine Hill, and if they cannot agree, they are to choose a third man, and then to determine it," &c.

Aug. 12, 1656. With others he petitions Oliver Cromwell for relief from Royal Exactions.

May 6, 1657. "Hugh Gunnison being returned by the Constable of Kittery to serve as a Deputy for y^t towne upon information against him, was judged unmeet for y^t service and so dismiss y^e Court and discharged from what employments he hath had, both in Military and Judiciary affayres." (Mass. Col. Records, III., 431.)

Notwithstanding he had been disarmed for Heresy in Boston, and had been driven away by oppression, the tyranny of the "Lords Brethren," it seems, reached Hugh Gunnison even in his retreat at Kittery. Although he had the popular vote, he was not allowed to discharge the duties of the office to which he was elected, or to exercise any office of trust or authority in the colony.

The inuendo of Bourne in his "History of Wells and Kennebunk," p. 96, that the General Court refused to admit him as a member when elected to that position by the Town of Kittery, on the ground that he was a "licensed rum-seller," is not justified by the facts, and is unworthy a place in serious history.

The latest notice of Hugh Gunnison that I can find, is under date of Sept. 21, 1658. (Gen. Reg. VII., 354.)

One of Hugh Gunnison's daughters married a man named Tucker. For on Nov. 4, 1718, one

Richard Tucker took out Letters of Administration, filed his bond, and an Inventory, on the Estate of Hugh Gunnison, late of Kittery, deceased, his Grandfather. (See Probate Records, Alfred, York Co., Me.)

His son, Joseph, (b. Mar. 31, 1659) was never married. On the old Gunnison place (granted Dec. 16, 1652), was a Garrison House erected by Hugh the year previous. One evening in the fall of 1707, while a violent snow storm was raging, the above Joseph was stationed as a sentinel at this house, as hostile Indians were in the neighborhood. His instructions were to hail any person approaching, three times, and if no answer was returned, to fire. Now it happened that a boatload of persons from Portsmouth landed near by, among whom was Grace, the wife of William Wentworth, who had left a young child at home, and was hurrying on, in advance of the rest of the company, past the Garrison house, muffled up in her cloak, facing the driving snow storm. She was hailed, and not replying, was fired upon by Joseph Gunnison, and mortally wounded. Before she died, she acquitted him of all blame in the matter, but his own conscience refused to pronounce him guiltless.. Although he was put on trial for the homicide and legally acquitted, he was himself always under the impression that he was guilty of murder. During the rest of his life he was melancholy, and at times deranged.

Elihu, the son of Hugh, was born in Boston, probably at King's Arms Tavern, N. W. corner of State and Exchange Streets. After the sale of their Boston property in 1651, he probably accompanied his parents to Kittery, Me. The gap from 1658 to 1674 I cannot fill. In the latter year, Elihu finds his wife at Dover, where, tradition says, he continued to reside until the settlement was destroyed by the Indians, and the inhabitants were driven down the river. The onslaught was so impetuous and unexpected, that the settlers barely escaped with their lives, and an infant of our name was inadvertently left behind, and the agonized parents saw their child siezed by an Indian, by the feet, and its brains dashed out against a rock. This tradition comes in a shape to imply one or more other children in the family. The settlers fled to Kittery, the oldest and most populous of all the settlements, which at no time was abandoned.

His wife died before Nov. 23, 1685, for on that day he made a Deed to John Hubbard of Boston, and no wife is mentioned in it. His second wife's name was Elizabeth, and by her he had the two youngest children.

In 1680, Elihu Gunnison joined with other residents of York, Kittery and Wells in an address to Charles II., to relieve them from the Puritan government of Boston.

December 28, 1680, he was an acting Magistrate with Walter Barefoot, William Haskins and Thomas Thurton in the seizure of a vessel at Portsmouth for violating the Revenue Laws. (See Affidavits printed in New Hampshire Hist. Soc. Collections, Vol. VIII., pp. 62, 69, 70, 119, 120.)

Aug. 19, 1682. "At the house of Robert Gibbers, at Fort Hill in Boston, John Alyen and others of y^e former inhabitation of Shippscutt River did joyntly bind themselves to stand to several Articles of agreement for y^e settling of a Township on a neck of land surveyed, and a town laid out thereon, lying and being in Shippscutt River." This was a re-settlement of what was called New Dartmouth, and was perfected Sept. 16, 1684.

A petition from the inhabitants of Pemaquid probably in 1683, was signed by Elihu Gunnison and others. (See Maine Hist. Col., V. 81.)

"Gunnison (Elihu) lived at New Dartmouth in Dukedom of York," (says Sewall, p. 187.)

April 21, 1684. Petition of Inhabitants of New Dartmouth, signed by Elihu Gunnison, as Justice of the Peace, with others.

Nov. 23, 1685. Elihu Gunnison of Sheepscoot River in the Government of New York, and formerly of Kittery within y^e Province of Maine in New England, Shipwright, deeds to John Hubbard of Boston, Merchant, Tenn Acres of Upland on Spruce Creek, in Town of Kittery, also, Granthom Island in Spruce Creek, adjoining. (See Appendix.) This land was on the West bank of Spruce Creek, while his father's old place was on the East bank. In 1717, this land was re-conveyed to Elihu Gunnison by Anne, widow of John Hubbard, and the original Deed was surrendered to him. No wife of Elihu is mentioned. He was probably a widower then.

Sept. 8, 1686. Commission of Elihu Gunnison, and of seven others, as Justices of the Peace for County of Cornwall, from James II. of England, the former Duke of York, may be found in full in Maine Hist. Col., V. 113. The Commission under which he acted as Justice of the Peace on April 21, 1684, was from Charles II., of England, probably.

There was a Fort on the banks of the Sheepscot River, which with all its buildings was destroyed about this time (1688), and the settlement was entirely broken up. (Me. Hist. Col., IV., 227.)

“Sept. 5, 1689. New Dartmouth destroyed by the Indians.” (Sewall, p. 187.)

Nov. 13, 1689. Elihu Gunnison attended a Council of War at Falmouth (now Portland), where it was ordered among other things, “that there be a sufficient garrison erect about Mr. Gunnison's house for a mayne Court of Guard,” etc. As New Dartmouth had already been destroyed, this new house was probably erected at Falmouth.

In 1690, the Fort at Falmouth was captured by the French and Indians, the same year that Sir

Wm. Phipps of Pemaquid, captured Port Royal from the French.

These successive disasters drove Elihu Gunnison back again to Kittery.

He was born the same year and month in Boston, with Sir Wm. Phipps in Pemaquid, and had been associated with him, not only as his contemporary, but also in the same employment and in the same town. So afterwards, his son Elihu became an Associate and Bro.-in-law of Sir William Pepperrell, of Kittery.

If Hugh Gunnison died at Kittery much later than his name appears in any records, I can account for several facts :

1. Why his son Elihu, on his escape from Dover to Kittery about 1677, with his wife and surviving child did not remain there, with his father at the homestead. His father had been tabooed politically, and most probably from his calling had fallen into habits of dissipation, so as to make it uncomfortable for the son to take or keep his family there.

2. How Elihu came to have land on the West bank of Spruce Creek, which he conveyed to John Hubbard in 1685. It was a separate home.

3. Why Elihu returned to Kittery in 1690. His father was now dead, and he was the only son with a family. On his return, he went into possession of the old homestead.

4. How it came about that Hugh's grandson, Richard Tucker (then) of Boston, as late as Nov. 4, 1718, administered on the Estate. Richard Tucker's uncle, Joseph Gunnison, probably died in 1718. That was eleven years after his accidental killing of Grace Wentworth, and he had reached the age of 68 years, and had no family. To pay the incidental expenses of his declining years, his nephew proposed to realize something from his grandfather's estate by legal proceedings.

In fixing the date of Hugh's death, I am inclined to say, not later than 1680, for his name does not appear on the Petition addressed to Charles II. by the inhabitants of Kittery, York and Wells, in that year.

Elihu Gunnison's name does not appear in the public records in Kittery until 1693. He served as one of the Selectmen during the years 1693-1710 inclusive. He was Moderator of the Selectmen during the years 1699-1726 inclusive, showing a well established character.

On his return to Kittery, Elihu Gunnison resumed the Ship-building business at the old homestead, and launched his vessels into Spruce Creek near his residence.

"May 9, 1693. Elihu Gunnison with others was appointed to give instructions to the Deputy of Representative to the General Court at Boston."

"May 16, 1694. Granted Elihu Gunnison Forty

Acres land. Draft of Mr. Gunnison's Upper Lot." (Kittery Town Records.)

"Mar. 5, 6, 8, 1696-7. Laid out unto Mr. Elihu Gunnison a Tract of Land at Bryan's Point, containing Three Hundred Acres of Land, Brian's Point included, it being a tract of Land granted unto Mr. Hugh Gunnison, Dec. 26, (16 O.S.) 1652, by the Town of Kittery." (Kittery Town Records, Vol. I., p. 114. See Appendix.)

Query? Why lay out this tract to Elihu, the younger son rather than to Joseph the older son, who was still living? Did Elihu pay a balance of purchase money? or, did he redeem it by paying back taxes, or did his father will it to him, and this proceeding was had to perfect title in him?

March 21, 1699. He was appointed by the town to keep the Ferry across Spruce Creek.

"Dec. 30, 1700. Then laid out to Mr. Elihu Gunnison Thirty-five acres of land, which land lyeth on the West end of the land formerly granted to his father, Mr. Hugh Gunnison, and is at that point of land between the said former grant and Spruce Creek, except what, etc., called Brint's Point."

"Feb. 26, 1702-3. Notice of Mr. Elihu Gunnison's Mill.

"May 10, 1703. Granted to Mr. Elihu Gunnison One hundred acres of land. Also, all the town's right to Gunnison's Neck, so called." (Kittery Town Records.)

March 29, 1729. The last trace of Elihu Gunnison, which is his signature to a document, as Justice of the Peace, which is now in my possession. How much later he lived I cannot tell.

The year of the death of the above Elihu Gunnison is fixed by documents, and the year of his birth by tradition, which says he was about eighty years of age at his death. Born at Dover, N. H., then the frontier, before he was three year old, his parents barely escaped with their lives and his, leaving the baby a victim of savage cruelty. His own mother died before he was ten years old, and if he accompanied his father through that long struggle for existence, and that long period of border warfare with the French and Indians at Pemaquid, New Dartmouth, and Falmouth, he experienced a rougher life than falls to the lot of most boys. When his father returned to Kittery, in 1690, he was fifteen years old. He naturally adopted his father's occupation. On coming of age he secured a grant of land on Kittery Fore Side, and established a ship-yard of his own, while his father continued to occupy the homestead. The tradition is that the younger Elihu did an extensive business at ship-building at his yard, employing as many as a hundred workmen the year round, and that he had on the stocks, sometimes, five or six vessels at once.

I have in my possession a contract made Dec. 25, 1722, between Elihu Gunnison, Shipwright, and Philip Hedman, of Boston, Merchant, whereby the former "sometime in June next ensuing, agrees to set up, build and completely finish, a new square sterned ship, with two decks, forecastle, and head, the keel to be sixty-three feet in length, twenty-two feet wide, at the main beam, eleven feet deep in the hold, four feet betwixt decks," etc., etc., with full specifications, on the payment by Philip Hedman of £660, one third down, half in money and half in goods ; one third at the laying of the lower deck, and balance when completed. Both parties binding themselves in the penal sum of £1320, for faithful performance of contract.

The tradition is, that he had a Beaufet or Livery Cupboard full of silver ware, and among other things a silver punch-bowl that held a gallon. The leather backed chairs now in my possession, tradition says, were imported from England by Hugh Gunnison whilst residing in Boston, i. e., before A. D. 1650. Other two chairs with the same history I have seen at the old homestead, in Kittery. They came into the hands of Robert Gunnison of Newburyport, and he sold them to B. Perley Poore of Newburyport. The remaining two out of the six that descended to Dea. Jos. Gunnison of Kittery (VI.) in direct line, passed into the possession of his daughter, Mrs. Margery Norton. My father remembered distinctly all six of these chairs in Dea. Jos. Gunnison's best room, at Kittery, as early as 1795, and they were then redolent of antiquity. (Vide Appendix.)

The silver spoons now in possession of Mrs. Mary Lincoln Welch (née Gunnison) of Newbury-port, as heir to William Gunnison (30) and marked ^{E.M.}_G for Elihu and Mary Gunnison, belonged to this man. As Mary died in 1726, the spoons are over a hundred and fifty years old.

This Elihu Gunnison's ship-yard was at the mouth of Spruce Creek, at Kittery Fore Side. The house where he lived was, in 1848, occupied by Robert Fernald, son of Lucy Fernald, daughter of Sarah Weeks, daughter of Joseph Weeks and Mary Gunnison, the daughter of Elihu, the son of Hugh. (Vide p. 29.)

Robert Fernald's wife was a Eunice Brown, a great grand-daughter of Eunice Gunnison, who married Wm. Dearing, and whose daughter Dorothea married Thomas Brown, whose son, Capt. Thos. Brown, was her father (see page 36). She had in 1848, on her mantel piece in a good state of preservation two cases of wax-work flowers made by her ancestor, Eunice Gunnison, while at school in Boston, 150 years ago.

In public documents and records this Elihu Gunnison is styled variously as Junior, Captain, Esquire, i. e., Justice of the Peace and Judge of Common Pleas, a position held by Hugh, by Elihu his son, and by Elihu his son, and by Elihu his son, i. e., by four successive generations.

Members of the family as they died were buried in the old Gunnison burying-ground, at Kittery, opposite the meeting-house and adjoining the old Cutts house. Only Gunnisons are buried there. I cannot learn whether any interments have taken place there since the year 1800 or not. In 1848, quite a number of tombstones were in place, with a wall on its four sides and a gateway in front. Now the tombstones have all been demolished, and the wall on two sides removed, and the materials used to make a double wall of extra height, and to fill up the gateway so as to bar out all access.

of Mrs. Mary Gunnison, wife to Mr. Elihu
Gunnison, aged 42
years dec^d May y^e
7th, 1726.”

The above Mary was a native of Bermuda, a lady of education and refinement. She aided her husband much in his business by her superior education. The Covenant of the Church in the lower parish of Kittery, was signed November 4, 1714, by Rev. John Newmarch, Elihu Gunnison, and fifteen other male members, and twenty-five female members, including Mary Gunnison.

Nov. 24, 1750, Elihu Gunnison retired from active employment, as on that day he made distribution of a portion of his property by Trust Deeds to his sons Joseph and John, reserving to himself a life interest therein. I think this was his 75th birthday. His death occurred in 1754, and was sudden. One day after riding around his lands, he came to his son John's house, dismounted to rest himself, and sat down. Soon after he said to his son John's wife, "I shall certainly die with this pain!" and immediately his head dropped upon his breast and he was dead. This occurred when his wife was on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Weeks, (Mary or Priscilla?) He was a very active, energetic man even up to extreme old age.

His second wife who survived him was Margery, sister to Sir Wm. Pepperrell. She was born Sept. 15, 1689, and died in 1769, aged 80 years. Her first husband was Capt. Peletiah Whittemore, married Nov. 4, 1706. By him she had four children. Her husband was lost at sea not far from the Isles of Shoals.

His daughter Mary m. Capt. Thos. Homan of Watertown, an Englishman, Sept. 13, 1740, and had by him two children, Benjamin, of Boston, and George, of Portsmouth. She died before 1769, and after her father, in 1754. In the 2d division of her father's estate, made on the death of her step-mother this fact appears. (See Appendix.) Tradition mourns over the fact that her husband treated her unkindly.

His son Benjamin died before his father, and left no family.

His daughter Eunice m. Wm. Dearing, July 22, 1738, d. 1788. She joined the church May 14, 1742. Wm. Dearing was born Sept. 17, 1708, and joined the church June 21, 1730. They had four children.

1. Eunice, m. Noah Parker, Aug. 17, 1763, and had one son, Noah, Jr., b. Jan. 1765.
2. Margery m. Samuel Norton.
3. William, a captain in the Revolutionary War.
4. Dorothea, m. Capt. Thos. Brown, a brother of Capt. John Brown, who m. Mary Gunnison, the oldest daughter of Elihu, (b. Mar. 8, 1706-7). Her son, Capt. Thomas Brown m. Eunice Fernald, Sept. 3, 1788, whose daughter Eunice Brown m. Robert Fernald. (Vide p. 33.)

His death was caused by falling from scaffolding about a ship on which he was working at Portsmouth. He was specially active in church matters, as the following items show :

Being the oldest son of a wealthy father, this Elihu enjoyed a double share of the paternal estate, including most of the furniture and plate. His third wife, widow of a bankrupt Boston merchant, by her extravagance, involved him irretrievably, and finally ruined him in estate, body and mind.

To pay debts of her contracting, all his moveable patrimony was seized and sold. Many articles of value, both intrinsic and historic, thus passed out of the family. Among other things, was his father's silver punch-bowl, (page 32). His misfortune and ruin caused great grief to all the family.

For the Deed dated Feb. 11th, 1772, to Joseph, his younger brother, for 12 acres pasture land (see Appendix B.) I do not know who Margaret Gunnison, the witness to that deed, was.

Aug. 9, 1730, he was admitted to church.

Sept. 17, 1746, his second wife owned the Covenant.

This Joseph was not baptized until May 29th, 1715. He was at least sixteen years old at his grandfather's death, and his elder brother had just married. He it was, who communicated the traditions to my father, and he personally knew all his ancestors in this country except probably, the first one, Hugh. When his grandfather died, his father, then 55 years old, was living at Kittery Fore Side, in the Robert Fernald house, (p. 33.)

I do not know that he changed his residence. The house, I think, was occupied by Joseph's older brother Elihu (V.) from 1730-1750. It was the old Garrison house which was burnt in 1750. A new house was built that year on or near the same spot by Joseph, and was occupied by him. His father's place at Kittery Fore Side was relinquished to his daughter Eunice, whose descendants occupied it in 1848, (p. 33.) After 1750, his father lived around among his children.

He followed the business of his father and grandfather before him, that of shipwright.

Oct. 31, 1750. Elihu Gunnison and Margery, his wife, deeded to his son Joseph a building-lot, containing about an acre, "beginning at a small point adjoining to Spruce Creek, being about fourteen poles south from y^e old seller where my old house stood that was burnt." (See Appendix B.)

July 1, 1754. In the division of his father's estate he received about 110 acres of land and two thirds of the family pew. A second division in 1769, on the death of his step-mother gave him about 13 acres of land with improvements, and the remaining third of the pew. His brother Elihu, and Mary, his wife, on Feb. 11, 1772, deeded to him 12 acres of pasture land.

Nov. 24, 1750. His Father, by Trust Deed, conveyed to him 53 acres, for use of Father during life, and recited a similar Deed to his other son,

John. This land was on the East side of Spruce Creek. It was probably his Grandfather's old ship yard. From which it appears that Joseph's father, on Nov. 24, 1750, retired from business, relinquishing his Kittery Fore Side ship yard to his daughter Eunice's husband, Wm. Dearing, whose descendant still occupies the place, and deriving his subsistence from the lands distributed by the several Trust Deeds. Thus Joseph, at the death of his father, Elihu, in 1754, became vested in his own right, in about 200 acres of the ancestral domain, including the original Shipyard of his grandfather, the first Elihu. The allotment to his brother John lay eastward of his, adjoining the York line, and is to-day occupied by his descendants. The balance of his father's large estate was distributed to Elihu and Mary Homan's heirs. (See Appendix.)

Joseph Gunnison's wife was daughter of Dea. Benjamin Crocker of Ipswich, a graduate of Harvard College, in 1713, who died in 1766, leaving a widow, Elizabeth, and children, Mary and John. (Reg. IX., 115.)

His uncle, Dea. Joseph Gunnison, having died in 1748, this Joseph Gunnison was elected to the vacancy, April 5, 1750, a position which he filled with great credit to himself and the family, for half a century.

June 6, 1743. Joseph and Mary Gunnison were admitted to communion.

Feb. 27, 1751, "Voted, That Sir Wm. Pepperrell, Knight and Baronet, Col. Tim. Gerrish, Rich'd Cutts, Jun., Esq., Dea. Joshua White, Dea. Jos. Gunnison, and Capt. Wm. Whipple send letters, etc., to assist in the ordination of Benjamin Stevens, pastor of Kittery church."

"Jan. 1, 1756, Dea. Joshua White and Dea. Jos. Gunnison, committee to talk with the widow Clear and Margaret Whitlock, and also a committee to inspect the manners of such as make a profession of religion." (Kittery Church Records.)

The Deacon was uniformly kind, affable, mild, consistent, patient, persevering. His wife was active, resolute, enterprising, independent. She once, for want of a better implement sheared a sheep with a pair of tailor's shears. Once she rode on horseback from Portsmouth to Newburyport, and back again on the same day. She once had a remarkable exhibition of "second sight," so called. She heard distinctly a splash in the water, as of some one falling overboard, and she sprang up as if in pain and surprise at the occurrence, and spoke of it to others, at the precise moment of time, when, as it was afterwards ascertained, her son, Robert Whipple, was lost overboard at sea.

Deacon Joseph and his wife was both buried in the Gunnison burying-ground, in Kittery. My father attended both funerals, and recollected the circumstances well. In 1848, I saw their tombstones standing in a good state of preservation. They cannot be found now. His grandchildren always retained a fond remembrance of the annual Thanksgiving as long as he lived. On these occasions, his board would overflow with good cheer to correspond with the crowds of descendants who invariably honored him with their presence, and craved his benediction. One of his grandchildren remembered that all his tables were filled three times, before all his numerous posterity could be accommodated with a seat. Another grandson, 88 years old, told me that Sir Wm. Pepperrell's widow was accustomed, ever after her husband's decease in 1759, to have a "beef critter" killed annually at Thanksgiving time, and to have it distributed among the poor of the parish. The delicate duty of superintending its distribution was always, at her request, entrusted to Dea. Joseph Gunnison, well known to be a just and humane man.

This Samuel was born in Kittery. He married and lived there until 1749, when he moved to Halifax, N. S., where his first wife and second child both died. He returned to Kittery, married for his second wife, his first wife's sister, and in 1765, moved to Goshen, N. H., where he and his wife both died at a good old age. Their numerous posterity are there now. Some of his carpenter tools are now in the possession of his grandson, Col. Gowan Wilson of Kittery, still living, 88 years of age. Badger's Island, near Kittery, was once owned and occupied by him.

This Samuel Gunnison, and Dea. Joseph Chandler's (see p. 50,) father, when young men, were once both impressed as seamen, on board His Majesty's ships, and were placed on different men-of-war, three miles apart, off Halifax. It happened that both were acting as sentinels, on the same night, on their respective ships, without the knowledge of the other. Mr. Chandler swam from his ship to the other, and hailed the sentinel. The other let down a rope, and hauled him on board, and concealed him in his joiner's chest. Search was made for him on board, without success. (Col. Gowan Wilson.)

His death was occasioned by an accident. While fixing the hinges of a cellar door, he fell into the cellar, and was taken up dead.

Mr. Thos. G. Potter, under date Jan. 12, 1877, says of him, “after making inquiry, I learn from our old people, who remembered the circumstances well, that he was an Uncle to my Mother.” A tradition in the family says he was poisoned in the water given him to drink, while on board an English Guard Ship, at Halifax, N. This Benjamin always went by the title of Capt. Ben. Gunnison. He was born in Kittery. He first learned the house-carpenter trade, of Mr. Whitten, at Portsmouth, N. H. When of age, in 1764, he went to St. Domingo, W. I., and worked at his trade there two years. He then began a sea-faring life, going before the mast as a common sailor. He afterwards commanded a brig, and, for nine years, was in the employ of Gov. Langdon, of Portsmouth. In 1795, after nearly 30 years' employment in the Merchant Service, he entered the Revenue Service of the United States, in the capacity of 1st Lieut. His station was from Portsmouth to Eastport. In 1800, he was rotated out. Again, in 1802, he was 1st Lieut. of a new Revenue Cutter until 1808, when he retired, after over 40 years' service on the waters, to his ancestor's homestead. There he lived until 1822, when he died. In this same homestead, his father, Dea. Joseph, who had built the house to take the place of the Garrison house, burnt in 1750, had died in 1799. Here in 1848, I found his two daughters, Eunice and Martha, in possession. The latter died here in 1853, and the former in 1856, when it was sold to its present possessor, Mr. Muggridge, who, I think, has Gunnison blood in his veins.

The old homestead has thus been occupied by a regular line of descent in the Gunnison name for over 200 years. Aunt Eunice, whom I visited in 1848, although old and feeble, poor and a cripple, was full of dignity and intelligence. She had been a teacher of youth for many years, and her mind was well trained. I can never forget the impression made upon me, as she recounted, with true ancestral pride, the story of her worthy ancestors. She clung to the memory of her own dear father, with deep emotion, and with tears. Rough and imperious though he appeared to others, to her he was ever affectionate and tender. The premature death of her only brother, Joseph, at the age of twenty, cast a shadow over her girlish heart which fifty subsequent years of life's experience could not efface. Robert Gunnison of Newburyport, her nephew, has come into possession, since her death, of some carefully preserved pictures, purchased by him in London as presents to his sisters, on his last voyage home. He was destined never to see them again alive, and these pictures were found by the family, in his chest, after his death.

His daughter, Nancy, was by some mistake baptised as Anne, July 14, 1771, probably arising from the mother's giving the name to the minister as Nanny. She never was married, and must have died young, as none of the family seemed to recollect her.

His daughter, Mary, lived to be 40 years old, and died unmarried.

His daughter, Eleanor, m. Furber Fletcher in Mar. 1802. He was b. Apr. 7, 1776. They had 6 children :

This William was born at the old homestead in Kittery, and was brought up there until he was 18 years of age (1771) when he went to Portsmouth, N. H., to learn the shoemaker's trade with Mr. George Ayer. He served an apprenticeship of 3 years, 3 months, and 21 days. The 21 days were so much over the time required in the indenture. After treating all hands round on the day of his liberty (as was the custom,) he had only 20 cents left with which to begin life for himself. He then (1774) established himself as shoemaker in Portsmouth, and did a good business. The currency, however, had wonderfully depreciated and embarrassed all business operations. At one time the price of a pair of shoes in Continental money was eighty dollars, while it took $4,500 of it to buy a yoke of oxen. I have before me a receipt of Geo. Lang, dated Oct. 7, 1776, for board of Wm. Gunnison.

In 1778, he married Hannah, daughter of John Grant, an English sea captain. Thinking that every man should raise from the ground what he consumed, instead of buying it, as people are obliged to do in towns and cities, he concluded to join his two occupations of farmer and shoe-maker. The Revolutionary War was still in progress, and the issue undecided. Accordingly, in 1780, he moved away from the sea-board to Fishersfield, (now Newbury,) N. H., near to Goshen, when he had but one child, Hannah. He had been induced to go there by the representations of his relative, Capt. Sam'l Gunnison⁸, who had migrated thither about 1765.

Jos. Mitchell, of Waterville, Me., (see p. 46,) told me in 1856, that himself in 1780, (then 12 years old,) formed one of the company that went along to drive the cattle through the wilderness to Fishersfield on this occasion. In 1789, William Gunnison moved back with his family to Kittery. While in N. H. he had Robert, William, Joseph,

William and John, five sons born. The two oldest of these, Robert and William, died in infancy, from exposure. The privations and sufferings of the family in the wilderness, surrounded, as they were, with wild beasts, were fearful. The very first night that Grandmother slept in the cabin of their wild home, her hair froze to her pillow. This farm, Grandfather did not sell, and after his sons Ebenezer and Isaac came of age, he gave it to them as their portion of his estate, because they alone, of all his sons, continued at home helping their father on the farm until of age. The rest of the boys went to learn trades as fast as they were 14 years of age. On Grandfather's return to Kittery in 1789, he occupied one of his father's farms, which became his own by inheritance, on his father's death, in 1799. In 1848, when I was first there, the place was occupied by Mr. Lewis. Here his children, Ebenezer, Isaac, Sally, Benjamin, Mary and George were born. In 1797, his mother died, and in 1799, his father. He now longed once more for the freedom of his frontier home, and kept on the lookout for an opportunity to sell his place in Kittery. In this he at length succeeded, and sold it to Mr. Samuel Parsons, for $1,600, and delivered it up on Feb. 20, 1802. In the following March, he moved with his family again to Fishersfield, leaving his son Joseph an apprentice to the blacksmith business, in Portsmouth, his son William an apprentice to the same business in Kittery, and his son John to take care of the stock until the grass grew in the spring, when they were driven up. His oldest child Hannah, had already married Theodore Parker, and was settled in Kittery. Himself, wife, four boys, and two girls, with their Penates and Lares moved up together. I have a letter from Joseph to his parents, dated Portsmouth, Sept. 17, 1802.

Grandfather always regarded this sale of the Kittery place as a fortunate one, having disposed of it "just in the nick of time," to use his own words, and at a good price. With the money, he bought a new farm in Fishersfield, of Major Burns. This is the spot where his 2d wife lived in 1848. Here his children Nancy and Elihu were born, and also all his 2d wife's children. Here his first wife died in 1813, while my father (Ebenezer D.) was on a visit at home, and here Grandfather himself died in 1831. His death was occasioned by a fall upon the ice while carrying a forkfull of hay from one barn to another. The fall injured his spine, so that his lower extremities were completely paralyzed, while he yet suffered but little pain. His mind continued to be calm and composed until he died. He was buried in the graveyard opposite his residence, where was once a church, and a tomb-stone was erected over his remains, by his son Ebenezer D.

In person, Dea. William Gunnison was about 5 ft. 9 in. high, perfectly straight, and with rather a full habit of body. His features were mild but firm, and his hair a dark brown, which, in later life, became long and white and copious and venerable. His voice was clear and penetrating, with a rapid and positive utterance. He spoke as if accustomed to command. His health was uniformly excellent and robust, and continued unimpaired to the last. He rose regularly at 4 A. M., summer and winter alike, and retired early. The winter before his death, he visited his son William at Newburyport, and drove down there in a sleigh, a quiet young horse, 5 years old, in two days, a distance of about eighty miles. He never knew the time when he could not spring from the ground and mount a horse bareback at a bound. He was devotedly attached to his family, and was never so happy as when he had his little ones climbing over him. His oldest child was more than fifty years older than his youngest, and there were twenty-two of them.

Mr. John Gunnison (No. 53,) on Apr. 12, 1876, writes me, "I am now 82 years of age . . . brought fresh to my recollection the endearments I formed to your grandfather when a boy. I well remember the time when my father and mother were both buried in one grave. The old gentleman tarried with us children over night, and gave us words of comfort."

In his family devotions, which were regular and punctual, he was accustomed to thank the Lord that he had given him so numerous a family; and that "none of them was either a cripple or a fool." This statement I can verify from a personal acquaintance with 14 of the number.

They all possessed a medium capacity, great compactness of physical structure, a strongly marked bilious temperament, and a penchant for mathematics, in which they excel. I know of but two poets in the entire connection. The longevity of the family is finely illustrated in this branch.

Up to this family the children were all christened soon after birth. Here we have a numerous family of children, not one of whom was christened in infancy, a fact calling for an explanation. I cannot learn at what precise period William embraced the sentiments of the Baptists, but probably before the birth of his first child in Portsmouth. His persistent refusal to have his child christened led to an open altercation with the Parish authorities, to the great grief of his venerable parents, and to the discredit of the entire connection. I regard this controversy as one of the causes of his retirement to the wilds of New Hampshire, where the Baptist leaven had been spread by Hanserd Knollys and his disciples. On his return to Kittery in 1789, the controversy was renewed, and this time over a whole drove of children. The contest waxed fierce and hot, until, on his refusal to pay Parish taxes assessed to support the standing order, when he had the money in his pocket, two of his cows were driven off by an officer and sold. It is but just to add that they were afterwards restored to him without any retraction or change on his part. Regard for his father, the venerable Dea. Joseph, prevailed in the Parish over the contumacy of the son.

Under these circumstances it was natural for a man of mettle as he was, should, like Wm. Blaxton of Boston, seek a home in the wilderness to escape religious persecution, just as his great grandfather fled from Boston to Kittery in 1651. The old people in Kittery in 1848, remembered distinctly the bold and defiant stand taken by him on this subject, although nobody then or since sympathized with him in it.

Persecution, however, did its work and made him a preacher, and although he never was ordained, but simply held the office, and bore the title of Deacon, he became an indefatigable preacher of the Gospel. On his return to Fisherfield in 1802, he labored without constraint or opposition to propogate the Baptist faith. He was accustomed to hold series of meetings in different places, and when the meeting closed, go and fetch an ordained Baptist minister to baptize the converts, and gather them into churches. He would work all summer on his farm, and in the winter, work at shoe-making in Concord, or Newport, or Claremont, or other towns, and at night hold his meetings. This constant service and change kept him bright and cheery. When returning home, and sometimes in the middle of the night on horse-back, my father recollected frequently of being aroused from his slumbers by the clear, ringing voice of his father, resounding through the woods, long before he reached home, singing "Sherburne," or "Lenox," or "Mead," or "Wells," or other familiar tunes. He was pre-eminently a religiously happy man. His youngest son, Ariel Kendrick, was named after the uncle of the famous Greek Professor, who was frequently called in by the Deacon, to aid him in these meetings. From Rev. Ariel Kendrick, an octogenarian, twenty years ago, I gathered ample confirmation of the preceding statements.

I do not know that Wm. Gunnison had any direct agency in producing Baron Stow or the New London Institution, but I do know, that he was one of the laborers in the vineyard before either existed, and did much to prepare the soil in which they germinated, and grew to be a blessing to the Baptist denomination.

My only apology for this extended notice of my grandfather, is that he deserves all I have said of him. He reared a family of rare size and worth, and did whatever he undertook, well.

This William learned the Blacksmith trade, and settled first at Wellfleet, and married there. In 1811, at the time of the great fire, he moved to Newburyport, and went into business with his older brother Joseph. The partnership closed in 1830, with his brother's death.

I first saw him in 1835, when, with his wife, he visited my father in Erie. I afterwards visited him in 1846, and many times subsequently at his residence, corner of Independence and Liberty streets. His blacksmith shop and warehouse stood on his dock adjoining the Custom House. He always made me welcome, and entertained me with great kindness and courtesy. Many of the facts for which no credit is given came from him, and many missing links were supplied from his retentive memory. I doubt if I would have persevered in collecting these Memorials but for his and my own father's constant encouragement. He seemed to be more like my father than any of his other brothers, especially in his tender heart and kind consideration of the weak and helpless. He loved his family with an ardent devotion. One of the most beautiful pictures in my memory is the death scene of his son James on the Charleston Steamboat, just arriving in New York harbor, while gazing into the eyes of his venerable father. The closing years of his own kind life were clouded with imbecility, but his lovely character will never be forgotten.

This Ebenezer was my father. He was born in Kittery, Me., and lived there until he was 12 years old. Then he moved with his parents to Fishersfield, N. H. While gaining his education at Salisbury Academy, N. H., Daniel Webster, Levi Woodbury, John A. Dix, Charles B. Hudduck, and others who have reached distinction, were among the pupils. He was trained for a Surveyor, excelling in, and loving mathematical study. I have a compass, a Gunter's Scale, and a Protractor which belonged to him in early life. He taught school in Goshen, and Newbury, N. H., during the years 1808-12, at Little Falls, N. Y., in 1813, at Ballston Spa in 1814. In 1815, on his marriage, he returned to Ballston Spa, and engaged in the Grocery business with a man named Smith, under the Firm name of "Smith & Gunnison." In September of that year, he sold out to Smith, and moved, with his wife and two brothers, Isaac and Benjamin, in a covered wagon, with household effects, to Erie, Penn.

He started for Columbus, Ohio, intending to buy land in that vicinity and go to farming; but while passing through Erie, the people solicited his services as Teacher, which he declined. He went westward as far as Conneaut, when his wife expostulated against going any farther West, and from her urging he consented to return to Erie, and took the school. Here he and Benjamin settled, while Isaac, after a short stay, returned East again. At Erie he kept school from 1815 to 1825, during the first five years, without any competition. Many of the best citizens never had any other teacher, W. W. Dobbins, Wm. A. Brown, William Hoskinson and others. The last year and a half of his teaching he was Principal of the Erie Academy. From 1825 to 1840, he was Justice of the Peace, and did a large business, entering, as he told, as many as eighteen hundred Judgments in his Civil Docket in one year, besides his extensive Criminal business. From 1827 to 1837, he was also a Merchant. In 1835, he formed a co-partnership with Charles T. Sage, his son-in-law, under the Firm name of "Gunnison & Sage." The financial revulsion of 1836, caught them, and the Firm went down, stripping him of most of his accumulations. In 1839, he was Register and Recorder of Erie Co., Penn. Though never much of a politician, he was a firm and decided Democrat, and in 1839, was an unsuccessful candidate for the Legislature.

In 1840, he was Clerk to the Engineers on the Erie Extension Canal. In 1841 and 1842, he was Book-keeper to the Firm of Walker, Williams & Co., of Erie. From 1843 to 1873, he was continuously connected as their confidential business agent with the vast interests of the founder of the City of Erie, Rufus S. Reed, retaining it with that gentleman's widow, and with her son, Gen. C. M. Reed, and until his own death, with the heirs of Gen. Reed. Thus, through three generations he enjoyed the full confidence of this remarkable family, and only resigned the position with his life. He was one of the five constituent members of the First Baptist Church in Erie, in 1831, and was Treasurer, Trustee, and Financier; its leading spirit to the very close of his life, a period of over 40 years.

For a brief period in 1846, he was Publisher and Manager of the Erie Observer, which paper, among other kind things, used this language in noticing his death: "Notwithstanding his advanced age, something of pained surprise was caused by the announcement on Monday, that our venerable and esteemed fellow citizen, Ebenezer Dearing Gunnison, had died on the morning of that day. On the preceding Saturday, although he had been somewhat troubled with a cough for a day or two, he was about his business as usual, and seemed to bear the burden of his eighty-three years with a sturdiness rendering a rounded century of life not improbable." On Saturday, he was in his office with his usual punctuality, and finished his week's labor, locked his safe and office, stopping at the barber's, as usual on his way home Saturday afternoon, rose in his usual health on Sunday morning, fed his chickens, took note of the thermometer, attended to family devotions, and while at breakfast with his companion, first felt the premonition of his dissolution. He was, however, relieved, and passed the Sunday at home with the family, lying down but a portion of the day, retired at night as usual, undressing himself, and before the day dawned on Monday, his work was done, and he peacefully and without a struggle passed away.

The Erie Observer said truthfully, "Without the feverish ambition which tempts men to seek conspicuous and uncertain places, the unassuming responsibilities of citizenship seemed naturally to gravitate towards him, and were unostentatiously accepted and filled with special integrity and business punctuality and exactness. His life, though prolonged far beyond the allotted span, was an unblemished example of honesty, economy, and Christian devotion, and its memory remains as the best of eulogies."

Besides the offices already enumerated, he was, in 1824, Secretary of the First Erie County Bible Society, of which Hon. Judah Colt was President. He was Secretary of the first Fire Company, organized Feb. 22, 1826, when Rufus S. Reed was Chief Engineer, and its Constitution was draughted by Hon. John H. Walker. He was elected a Director of the old Erie Bank, in 1830. With all his activity in early life, he wrote to me on his 81st Birth-day, that the ten years of his life between 70 and 80 were the most fruitful in results of any ten years of his life.

The following poetical tribute in his memory, written by one of his grand-children, and published in The National Baptist, should not perish.

“IN MEMORIAM.

E. D. Gunnison, Erie, Pa., March 17, 1873.”

“The Sun looked down upon the closing week,
Homeward from his labors, as he was wont,
The Patriarch went; more than four score years
Were written on his brow; calm, placid was
The aged face; the mingled loss and gain
Of life; its sorrow, grief, toil, and triumph
Now appear but gain.

Faithful, upright, thro' ill report and good,
He served the Master, and tho' others turned Aside, he stood to the end, firm and true.

He was content, for 'in the eventide

Was light,' and with him dwelt a holy calm,
E'en the peace of God.

The Sabbath morning dawned ; upon his couch
He rested, weary with the weight of years ;
The Church he loved so long, so faithfully,
And well, upon that morning, saw him not.

And ere the dawning sun shone on the toil
Of another week, peacefully he passed
From earthly labors, up to the reward,
The blest employments of a Heavenly home."

—Majasa.

Virden, Ill., May 17.

In person, Ebenezer Dearing Gunnison was 5 feet 11 1-2 inches high, with broad shoulders, and unusual length of arms, and of immense strength of body. Of this he never seemed to be conscious excepting when taking a heavy lift with others. He wielded an axe with masterly success. His complexion was dark, with high cheek bones and overhanging eyebrows, covering dark, hazel eyes of peculiar brilliancy and mildness, unless when under the influence of strong emotion, which was very rare, when his look was terrific. His voice was Gunnisonian, and of a rich bass. His speech was slow, deliberate, but decided. His hair in early life a jet black, and straight. At fifty, he became somewhat bald, and later in life, he wore a wig, and his hair turned snowy white, but it was never copious. He never shrank from any labor or ex-posure. He rose at 5 A. M., the year round, and retired at 8 P. M. in Winter, and at 9 P. M., in Summer. His gait was a long, rapid stride, somewhat stooping, without any idea of grace. He always preferred mittens to gloves, and bare hands to mittens. He walked much, and at 70 would tire out most young men. His penmanship was rapid, angular, and unadorned, and a model of neatness. His powers of computation in adding columns of figures, or at interest were wonderful. He made it a point "to repair his acquaintanceship," and by that means kept up with the times. When he lost one old friend he would gain two new ones. His life was an unselfish one. He was accustomed, all his life, to seek out worthy objects of his benefactions, and without solicitation and parade, help the poor, and especially encouraged, by donation or loan, deserving young men.

The purpose of making this collection of family memorials originated with him, and it was under his fostering that this much has been accomplished. Without him they never would have appeared.

I should not forget to mention his exceedingly sensitive sympathy with other's sufferings; kind and considerate of the weakness and failings of the weak; the largest charity for people differing from him in politics, religion, or social condition.

“ In the death of this venerable man has another of our old residents been removed — who as friend, neighbor, and companion lived above reproach, and died without an enemy. He was born in Kittery, Me., May 24, 1796, one of a large family of brothers, and came to Erie County in October, 1815. He was a brother of the well known E. D. Gunnison, lately deceased, who, about the same time, came to this place, where he spent his life. Erie borough was then but a hamlet, while the entire County was almost in a state of nature. The subject of this sketch settled in Millcreek township, on one of the Love farms, but after remaining two years, distrusting the title, he removed to Green township, where he cleared a farm, upon which he resided thirty-five years. He then removed to Erie, and remained about six years, then resided in East Millcreek twelve years; from whence he again removed to Erie, and spent the last seven years of his life at the corner of 22d and German streets.

“ He was married in 1817, to Miss Clarinda Parker (a sister of William, Ira, Dean, and Ora Parker), a lady of strong intellectual powers, and of great congeniality of tastes, which union continued for sixty-two years, a period of unbroken married life not often witnessed. Their children were Ora P., long United States Assistant Assessor, and now resident in East Millcreek ; Jonas, who, as Attorney-at-Law and member of the Legislature of 1860, is well remembered, though he died in 1871 ; and Albert B., who is now serving a second term as County Commissioner of this County.

“The deceased was of preëminently industrious and methodical habits, and acquired and retained a competence. By his geniality, cheerfulness and undeviating cordiality of manner, he won and retained the esteem and good will of all who enjoyed his acquaintance. His home was for many years a popular resort, the centre of an open-hearted hospitality, which will long be remembered.

“Though not an office-seeker, he had been elected to public position, which he acceptably filled. In the war with Great Britain, he served as a soldier, and was one of the pensioners under the late Act. During the long life of Mr. Gunnison, his observation had been particular, and his estimate of character and of contemporary deeds carefully made. Hence his descriptions of men and events were interesting. It could hardly be otherwise ; for his life had almost bridged a century. Few men have been permitted to enjoy a happier old age. Of extraordinary industry, and yet of impaired strength, about five years ago he fell from a ladder about twelve feet, suffering an injury to body and mind, from which he never fully recovered. Again, a year since, he met with another injury by a fall from a carriage, that further damaged his faculties, which had, until these accidents, been in remarkable preservation.

“For some time confined to his house, he lingered until Thursday last, when he gently sank to sleep, soothed by every attention which the hand of affection could afford, or the solicitude of his venerable companions suggest. Thus has parted another link which held us to the past. A familiar form, a genial countenance, will be missed, yet long pleasingly remembered in many sympathetic homes.

“Though almost the last survivor of his generation, those who knew him intimately, will mourn one whose influence was good, and whose sterling qualities will leave a lasting impression. These characteristics were forcibly recounted by his venerable friend and compeer, Rev. Mr. Shipman, in his impressive discourse at the funeral yesterday, while all who listened were touched by the feeling tribute paid by the venerable speaker to the marked characteristics of a long, exemplary, and well-spent life.” — The Erie Gazette.

In March, 1840, he took charge of Parish in Manchester, N. H. In 1841, took charge of Parish in Hallowell, Me., where he resided nine years, doing a great work as a controversialist worker in the Temperance field. In 1850, he took charge of Parish in Abington, Mass. In 1854, he removed to Annisquam, Mass., where he distinguished himself in the cause of education. In 1857, he removed to Halifax, N. S. Here he remained for nine years, doing a great work for that Church.

and where, during the war, he was prominent by his labors for the North, acting, for a time, as American Consul, for which service he received the warmest commendation from Hon. William H. Seward, Secretary of State, and from the papers of the North.

In 1865, he removed to Norway, Me., where he was much respected, being instrumental in organizing a Savings Bank, of which he was President.

In 1869, he removed to Dexter, Me., where he resuscitated the Society, built a fine church, and placed the Society on a prosperous basis.

In 1871, after having had a shock of paralysis, he felt that he must take a charge involving less labor, and he accepted the pressing invitation of the Society at West Waterville, Me., where he died.

“He was a man of decided character, and indomitable energy—a great worker, and successful organizer. He was a person of fine social qualities, and owed much of his success to the facility with which he drew people around him, and attached them to him personally. As a preacher, he was noted as an expounder of the doctrines which were so dear to his heart, and left his mark behind him, in the convictions of the people who came under his teaching.” — The Universalist.

“Mr. Gunnison was in Halifax during the War of the Rebellion, and his voice was ever for the right in that hot-bed of secession sentiment. The value of his services to the North during that period can hardly be over-estimated." — Gloucester Advertiser.

This John, was b. in Goshen, N. H.; received his early education in Hopkinton Academy, N. H.; entered the Military Academy at West Point, in June 1833; was graduated with highest honors in class of 1837, proceeding at once as Lieut. to Fortress Monroe, Va., to await orders. He left there Nov. 4, 1837, to join the southern division of the Army in Florida, against the Seminoles, who were committing fearful barbarities. He was transferred to the Corps of Topographical Engineers in spring of 1838; accompanied the Army to Okee Chobe. On May 6, received orders to go to the Cherokee country, to assist in removing that tribe west of the Mississippi; during 1839 and 1840, in Florida on Government business; found his wife at St. Mary's, Ga.; from thence, ordered to Green Bay, Wis., to survey the boundary between Wisconsin and Michigan; was engaged in the North-West in explorations and surveys for several years.

In 1849, ordered to St. Louis to join an expedition to survey a new and unknown route to the Mormon settlements, then explore for a road to Fort Hull, also the valleys of the Great Salt and Utah Lakes. The winter sat in with great severity, and the party were obliged to stay at the Mormon city for some months. During the winter he paid particular attention to the doctrines and practices of the Mormons, and the next year published his "History of the Mormons."

In 1850, he returned to Washington, and was engaged in public business until 1853, when he received his commission as Captain of the Corps of Topographical Engineers, and was soon ordered to take command of the Pacific R. R. survey. He immediately made all necessary arrangements, proceeded to St. Louis, and on the 23d of June, 1853, was ready to advance and commence the explorations and survey. His sudden and shocking death while engaged in the line of his duty, is fully set forth in the documents in Appendix.

Beard, his instructor at Lowell. In 1851, he removed to San Francisco, Cal., where he has been engaged in practice of his profession to date, building up a reputation as one of the solid, substantial citizens of the city and state. He was a passenger upon the ill-fated Steamer, "Golden Gate," burned July 57, 1862, at sea, off the coast of Mexico, bound from San Francisco to Panama, and was one of the few that survived that terrible disaster. He was a member of the Legislature of California, representing the city and county of San Francisco, in that body, in 1862-3. He is now senior member of the Law firm of Gunnison & Booth, No. 604 Merchant St., San Francisco, Cal.

This Henry W., was for several years, from June 1849, engaged in editing a daily democratic newspaper, in Milwaukee, Wis., and he has since been connected, as Editor, with the Rochester (N. Y.) Daily Union, and the Chicago Times. From 1853 to 1860, he had charge of the United States Public Works at Milwaukee. He was Superintendent of Construction of Harbor under War Department, and also of United States Custom House, and P. O. Buildings at Milwaukee.

He was in the Service two years as Captain, first in U. S. Regiment of Lancers, second, as Captain in 24th Wisconsin Regiment. He took a hand in the battles of Perryville, Ky., Oct. 8, 1863, and Stone River, Dec. 31, 1863, and Jan. 1, 1864.

His most trying experience was on the occasion of the disaster to the S. B. Lady Elgin, Sept. 8, 1860. The boat was on its return trip from Chicago to Milwaukee, with a large excursion party on board, including a Military Company and Band. In the midst of a violent storm, she collided with the Schooner Augusta, about 2, A. M., and sank in 35 minutes, in 110 feet of water, about four miles from shore. He was in the water about eleven hours, having swam and drifted some eight or ten miles before reaching shore, in the roughest storm known on the lakes for years. (See his own full account in Appendix) In 1877, he was Mayor of the city of Dayton, Ky.

This man is the only Poet of the name of Gunnison that I ever heard of. I think the family are in duty bound to encourage the new faculty. Soon after the War of the Rebellion, he gathered his fugitive pieces into a book, and published it under the title "Our Stars." In 1876, he launched upon the unsteady waves of popular favor another volume entitled "One Summer's Dream; an Idyl of the Vineyard, and other Poems." In the Appendix, we give one gem called "Why he takes them," which would suffice to give a relish for the whole book.

APPENDIX.

EXCURSUS I.

Eunice Welsh, of Kittery, an unmarried woman, had a son usually called John Welsh, but sometimes also John Gunnison, after his putative father, the third child of John^r. This son grew up a reputable man, and on Dec. 1st, 1797, was married to Hannah Keene under the name of John Gunnison, as she refused to marry him under the name of Welsh.

The old people whom I interviewed in 1848, claimed that the real father of John Welsh was one Nicholas Grace. That the John Gunnison who was supposed to be the father was at sea and away from home at the time. I could not learn that John Gunnison was any better man than Nicholas Grace, but he belonged to a better family. It is claimed that this whole family which now bears the name of Gunnison should bear the name of Grace, as there is no Gunnison blood in them. They are deservedly held in high esteem in Kittery where they still reside. They had seven children, whose descendants I have traced no further. My father saw him at Herkimer, N. Y., on July 5th, 1813, in a company of two hundred sailors and marines going to Sackett's Harbor.

The Old Chairs.

The "Erie (Pa.) Daily Dispatch" of March 10, 1866, contained the following in its Editorial Columns :

"Rare and Interesting Relics.

"By invitation of George W. Gunnison, Esq., we yesterday had the privilege of looking upon and sitting in a couple of chairs, which have come down in his family as heir-looms from a distant generation. Mr. Gunnison informs us that these chairs were imported from England by the grandfather of his father's great grandfather's, named Hugh Gunnison. They are of apple wood, which fact attests their great antiquity. His father, E. D. Gunnison, Esq., remembers seeing these chairs, and sitting in them upwards of seventy years ago in the old Homestead, then in the possession of his grand parents, and that then they were objects of great veneration by the old people. This old homestead, we are assured, has been in the family ever since A. D. 1651. The government grant to Hugh Gunnison, b. about 1610, was made Nov. 16, 1652, and the estate has been to the present time in the occupancy of the original grantee, and his legitimate heirs by direct descent. As forming part and parcel of the ancestral domain is a burying ground, in which lie buried the remains of members of this family alone for eight or ten generations.

These chairs unquestionably formed part of the furniture of the King's Arms Tavern on the corner of Exchange Street and State Street in Boston, which he sold in A. D. 1651, and were thence removed with his family that year to Kittery.

They are in a good state of preservation, with high, straight backs, of massive build, dragon feet, leather-bottomed and backed, fastened by brass-headed nails, and entirely innocent of paint or varnish. Their advent to this country takes us back to those historic times of great stirring events which find no parallel until we reach our own unparalleled rebellion.

Hugh Gunnison, on his way from his native Sweden to America, via. England, not far from 1623, found James I. on the throne. The life of Hugh, and that of his son Elihu, was passed under the reign of the Stuarts. Abundant memorials of their active participation in public events in Boston and vicinity are still preserved.

These chairs have come down from the days of Charles XII. of Sweden, Louis XIV. the Grand Monarque of France, Philip of Spain, Federick of Prussia, Peter the Great of Russia, the last two kingdoms just emerging into notice, and of Wm. and Mary, and Anne of England; from the days of Bunyan and Milton, of Massillon and Fénelon, of Van Tromp and De Reyter. The contemporaries of Cromwell and Shakespeare were still living. Jeffries' enormities were still fresh in the minds of the people.

In order to get an idea of the great antiquity of these chairs, we must compare their date with that of other things which we are accustomed to regard as very ancient. For instance, the grandparents of George Washington might have occupied them. They were in use an hundred years before the American Revolution, and while yet the great English Revolution was a recent event. Travellers go to Mount Vernon and look upon relics connected with the Washington family, more recent by many years than these chairs.

Go to Hingham, Mass., and you may see there the oldest church edifice in the United States, erected in A. D. 1680, and preserved with devotional care. Go to Philadelphia and you may be shown through a narrow passage-way out of Market Street, near Second Street, the house built for William Penn, nearly ten years later, out of bricks imported from Holland, the oldest house in Philadelphia. But the families and furniture of those early dates have all long ago disappeared.

To the family these old chairs are intensely interesting. Their ancestors have in their order come upon the stage of action, occupied these chairs for a few years, and then like their fathers, have passed away. It is doubtful whether there exist in this vicinity any heir-looms of so ancient a date.

Two more chairs of this same set are now at the "Old Homestead," together with some ancestral silver ware, in the possession of the present heirs. Two others are traced down the current of time, as also a magnificent silver punch bowl holding a gallon, to about one hundred years ago, when they disappear.

Mr. Gunnison informs us that he has prepared a manuscript volume of Memorials of his family together with a complete genealogical table from the year, A. D. 1610, which he proposes to put to press as soon as completed.

"A Golden Wedding."

A Newport, N. H., paper has the following :

"Under date of Jan. 4, 1825, appeared the following notice :

"Married in Wendell (now Sunapee) December 29, by Rev. Ira Person, Mr. Joel Dame and Miss Harriet Gunnison, both of Wendell."

And on Wednesday, Dec. 29, 1875, just half a century after, Mr. Person was again invited by the same couple to officiate at their Golden Wedding. At the same time Mr. James C. White of Marlboro' improved the occasion to be married to their eldest grand-daughter, Miss Emma L. Dame

These ceremonies took place at the residence of their son, George E. Dame, Esq., who with his accomplished lady, furnished a bountiful entertainment for about sixty invited guests—nearly all relatives of the family. Rev. A. S. Nickerson solemnized the nuptials of the young couple, and Rev. Ira Person re-united the bride's grand-parents with the "golden clasp." The venerable clergyman was even for the moment made young again, himself, by the early memories which the occasion revived. He made an address well suited to the event and its antecedents. Mr. Nickerson also commented upon the fidelity and harmony which had subsisted between the senior couple, and commended their example to the young couple whom he had just pronounced "man and wife."

Geo. E. Dame of this town, Russell Bixby of Marlboro', and J. W. Boothe of Goshen also made remarks. Both couples were made the recipients of valuable presents. Mrs. Dame accepted her gold-bowed spectacles only as a token of personal regard, as her vision is yet unimpaired. She thinks, however, that they may possibly come into play when she becomes an old lady. Mr. and Mrs. Dame evidently enjoyed the occasion, and were perfectly reconciled to join hands again.

"What if, when Harriet gave her hand, 'twas one

"Made strong by household tasks well done?"

"What if, in Joel's hair, her searching eye

"Usurping gray among the black could spy?
 "What if, in both, life's blooming flush was lost?
 "And there full autumn felt the mellowing frost?
 "Old time, who blowed the rose of youth away,
 "Had brought at last the Golden Wedding Day!
 "Like those tall elms, about their mansion found,
 "They'll grow no more—but all their growth is sound;
 "By time confirmed, and rooted in the land,
 "The storms they've stood still promise they shall stand."

A small amount of space in these family Memorials may be granted for the purpose of perpetuating the memory of Mrs. Sarah Lavinia Gunnison.

She was the eldest child of Rev. R. E. Pattison, D. D., and Sarah Lavinia Pattison, who was the eldest daughter of Dea. Philip Brown of Concord, N. H., who with Mr. Jones formed the Firm of Brown & Jones, succeeded by Jones, Ball & Poore, who are now succeeded by Shreve, Crump & Low, cor. of Summer and Washington Streets, Boston.

Her father was twice President of Waterville College (now Colby University) and twice Pastor of the First Baptist church, Providence, R. I. She was born in the latter city, Feb. 7, 1831, and her mother died there — 1833, at the early age of 22 years, leaving two children, Sarah L. and Eliza Gano, an infant, who died at Covington, Ky., in her 12th year. Sarah L. and her two youngest children died in 1862, in Pella, Iowa; all within the space of a single month. Inheriting a feeble constitution, she yet struggled most cheerfully and heroically against impending fate, and accomplished an amount of work in a few years, which would seem Herculean in a person of vigor and strength. She was the mother of three children, and learned during the ten years of her married life the Latin, German and Hebrew languages, and had classes in them all, hearing her pupils' recitations frequently when too weak to sit up on her lounge. With her chipper, joyous spirit and merry sociability, she made every company which she joined a happy one.

For the sake of her only surviving son, I wish to transmit the following lines, written by a friend, Mrs. Mary A. Keables, of Pella, Iowa, in May, 1862, and printed in "The Christian Times" of Chicago, Ill.

"Adieu, sweet friend, thine earthly race is run,
The Cross laid down, thy Heavenly crown is won,
The Valley dark, thy gentle feet have trod,
Alone, yet fearless to thy home with God.

"How blest thy lot! we linger here below,
And dimly see, and yet we cannot know,
How full the joy to ransomed spirits given,
The perfect peace, the ecstasy of Heaven.

"Here sickness comes, and Death's unpitiful hand,
No grief, no pain, invade that better land.

Here are sore partings, hearts are wrung with pain;
For thee no death, nor partings come again.

“Dark are the clouds, that hover o’er the way;
Thine is the sun-light of immortal day,
Our’s is the tempest — thine, eternal rest;
Our home life’s billow — thine our Saviour’s breast.

“And yet we weep; alas! ’tis bitter pain
That wrings our hearts to see thee ne’er again
Upon this earth; thy dark eyes’ winning smile,
Thy loving voice, that could each care beguile.

“Lost to us here, Lord, give us grace to bear
Thy chastening sore with meekness and with prayer,
Thy hand hath wounded — bind the bleeding heart,
Thy comfort give and strength divine impart.

“A few more days, perchance a few more years
Of mingled pain and pleasures, smiles and tears,
Then done with earth, and all these earthly toys,
We’ll clasp thy hand, sweet sister, in the skies.

“Then not farewell, dear friend, ’tis but good night;
Death’s darkness hides thee from our mortal sight.
But when the night our Father’s hand hath riven, We’ll say good morning to thee, up in Heaven.”

Also, these other lines penned by the hand of the sorrowing father over the grave of little Everett, a wonderful mature child, only two years and eight months old :

“ ‘What is home without a mother?’
What are all the joys we meet,
When the loving smile no longer
Greet the coming of the feet?

The days seem long, the nights are drear,
And time rolls slowly on;
And, oh! how few are childhood's pleasures,
When her gentle care is gone.

“What is home without our baby?
Little pledge of mother's love,
Neither mother now, nor baby
Cheers the bitter solitude.
We miss his lovely form and face,
And little cares that have their place;
We have no baby now — he's left us
Noiseless, careless, — Oh! 't is God's bereft us.

“What is home without our Evie?
Gentle, gentle little boy;
Oh! his mild blue eyes, so lovely,
Watched her hovering, darling mother's toy,
His pattering feet, nor lisp shall greet
His father's, brother's ear;
A seraph now, he's gone to meet
His angel mother and baby dear.”

The fact should not be omitted that Mrs. Sarah L. Gunnison had a firm religious faith, and a consistent Christian character. She was baptized into the fellowship of the Walnut Hills Baptist church, Cincinnati, by her father, when about fifteen years old. Rev. D. A. W. Smith, now at the head of the Rangoon Theological Seminary, told the writer in 1875, that he always regarded her as “the model woman” of all the women he ever knew. He was one of five little boys composing her Sunday-School class in 1851, at Newton Centre, Mass. All five of these boys were converted before she left it in October of that year.

Her social qualities were remarkable. As a teacher the fascinations of her manner can never be forgotten by her pupils.

The family will certainly pardon this digression from my rule to admit nothing but Gunnison memorials within this book.

John W. Gunnison, b. Nov. 11, 1812, d. Oct. 26,

A Dispatch from St. Louis, Nov. 30, 1853, says: "The Salt Lake Mail has arrived at Independence, bringing intelligence of the Massacre of Captain Gunnison and part of his exploring party. An Express reached Governor (Brigham) Young, on the 31st of October, from Capt. Morris, giving an account of the Massacre, which was committed by a party of Indians (?) on the Sevier river. The killed were Captain Gunnison, Mr. Kenn the topographical engineer, William Porter a guide, two others, and three privates of Co. A. mounted riflemen. The following are the particulars. Capt. G. and twelve of his party had separated from the rest, and while at breakfast, a band of Indians, intending to destroy a Mormon village near at hand, came upon them and fired with rifles, and then used bows and arrows. Shots were returned by the Gunnison party, but they were overpowered, and only four escaped. Gunnison had twenty-six arrows shot in his body, and when found, one of his arms was off. The Notes of the Survey which had been nearly completed, instruments and the animals, were taken by the Indians. Gov. Young immediately sent aid to Capt. Morris to release him from his critical position in the midst of treacherous Indians, and endeavor to obtain the lost property. The party intended soon to go into Winter quarters."

The Los Angeles Star has received from Carvello an account of the Gunnison Massacre, obtained from Kanoshe, Chief of the Panvan Indians, who committed the deed. The following are the particulars :

"An emigrant party of Americans, under command of Mr. Thomas Hildreth and two brothers, encamped near Fillmore. Some of the Indians came into the camp, as is their usual practice, and solicited food and clothing, also permission to remain in camp till moonrise, which permission was refused, and the Indians ordered out of the camp. The Indians did not immediately comply, whereupon the whites unmercifully attacked them and shot down a chief, two of his sons and several others. A few days afterwards, a brother of the chief who was slain, was hunting, and he heard near him the explosion of fire-arms. He discovered that it proceeded from two men who were also hunting. He silently followed them to camp, and making an artificial scalp of horse hair, related the circumstances and commenced a war dance, in which the whole party joined until after midnight. They then armed themselves and proceeded to Capt. Gunnison's camp — surrounded it, hiding themselves in the willows near by. While Gunnison's party were eating their breakfast, the signal was given, the attack commenced. One man fell on the spot. Captain Gunnison rose and held out both hands to them, which was answered by another discharge. Some of the men endeavored to get to their horses, which were picketed, but they were all massacred with the exception of one or two dragoons who made their escape. Not a gun was fired by the whites in defence. One of the Indians on a captured horse made his way into Kanoshe's camp, some miles from the scene of action. Kanoshe repaired to the Indian camp and endeavored to obtain possession of the property taken. This incensed the Indians, and several arrows were pointed at him, but his indomitable courage saved him, and he succeeded in obtaining the property, which was restored to the proper owners at Fillmore. Kanoshe knew nothing of the intended attack. Walker and his band of Utahs were three hundred miles off at the time, and were innocent of any participation in the act."

The Los Angeles Star of the 17th Nov. 1853, contains the following in relation to the Massacre of Capt. Gunnison by the Parvan Utah Indians:

“Messrs. Noland, Banning, Crane and Stuart arrived at the Monte (San Bernardo) last Tuesday, and from them we gather the following particulars in regard to the fate of Lieut. Gunnison, who was prosecuting one of the Government surveys for the line of the Pacific Railroad. The route he was surveying is that favored by Col. Benton.

“Lieut. Gunnison with a train of eighteen wagons, came up the Arkansas River, and passing Bent’s Fort, crossed the Rocky and Wahsatch Mountains, into the Beaver Valley of the Salt Lake region. Arrived here, Lieut. Gunnison with eleven men, including R. H. Kern the draughtsman, and Mr. Chrisfeldt the Ornithologist of the Expedition, left the camp for the purpose of exploring the country about Sevier Lake. On the 26th of October they were attacked by a branch of the Utahs called the Parvans, a band of murdering thieves, well known by all emigrants, and all the party killed. Some days afterwards the Indians sent a messenger, bearing the Minutes of the Survey, together with the Instruments, who gave intelligence of the destruction of the party, and stated that the attack was made in revenge of the tribe at Cedar Springs, by the Hildreth party, in which eleven Indians were killed and several wounded.

“Messrs. Noland, Banning, Crane and Stuart left the camp with one wagon to bring the intelligence. In this wagon they came on as far as Bitter Springs, forty-five miles beyond the Mohave, and one hundred and seventy-five from this city. At Bitter Springs their animals gave out, and they were obliged to abandon them. They started on foot and arrived at the Monte on Tuesday, much worn down with the fatigue of their journey.

“Mr. J. W. Ross of Iowa arrived in town yesterday. He came through over the Gunnison route and reached the main camp of the expedition two days after the occurrence. He gives us additional particulars, which in some respects conflict with the above. When he arrived at the camp, a party which had been sent out with one of the survivors as a guide, had just come in and reported that they were unable to bury the dead from fear of the Indians. Capt. Morris, who succeeded in the command after the death of Gunnison, and whose party numbered about sixty men, then sent a dispatch to Fillmore City, six miles distance, for assistance.

“A party of seven Mormons took a guide and went to the scene of the massacre, about twenty-four miles from the main camp; and without molestation, recovered all the animals, save one that had been killed, together with the arms, instruments and minutes of the survey of the party.

“All that remained of the murdered men were the disjointed bones picked clean by the wolves. The only parts that could possibly be identified were a thigh bone believed to be that of poor Gunnison, and the skull of Potter, Gunnison’s Mormon guide. These remains were all carefully collected and buried, and the party returned and forwarded the property of the expedition to camp. The conduct of Capt. Morris is commented on, for allowing the bodies of his comrades to be eaten up by wolves; as it is said his force was sufficient to have whipped all the Indians in the valley.

“Mr. Ross remained eighteen days in that region, and had frequent interviews with the chief of the Parvans, Lesus. The whole of the tribe, he thinks, does not number forty men. The chief often expressed great regret at the death of Gunnison, the attack was made without his knowledge by his people, who had become enraged at the indignities practised upon them by parties of emigrants.”

“BETHLEHEM, PENN., April 14, 1857.

JUDGE DRUMMOND:

You will please recognize in me the widow of Capt. Gunnison. I have just finished your letter of resignation to the Attorney-General, and see confirmed by you the impression I have always held myself, that the Mormons were the directors of my husband’s murder. Notwithstanding I have but from Brigham Young and Carrington received the kindest letters of condolence, &c., pardon me then, my dear sir, for thus intruding myself upon you; but, if you can find the leisure, you would confer a lasting favor upon us, by giving us the particulars of such information as you have gleaned.

You can better imagine, than I can by words express, the feelings that thus influence me to impose this much upon your time.

Respectfully, &c.,

M. D. GUNNISON.

CHICAGO, ILL., Monday, April 27, 1857.

Mrs. M. D. GUNNISON, Bethlehem, Penn.

MY DEAR STRANGER FRIEND:

Your kind note of inquiry, under date of the 14th inst., was duly received at this place on the 21st inst., but owing to personal matters I have been wholly unable to reply to your letter until this day, for which delay I trust your generous heart will find no fault. You ask me "to give the particulars of such information as I have gleaned" in connection with the murder of Capt. Jno. W. Gunnison, who was most foully and inhumanly murdered at the Sevier River in Utah Territory, in A. D. 1853. This information I will cheerfully give you, not only as a sense of duty to you as the wife of a good man who fell prematurely at his post doing duty, but as a matter of fact which should go to the world as a portion of the history of that barbarous transaction.

In the month of November (October?) A. D., 1853, Capt. Gunnison and eight others (one of whom was a Mormon) were murdered on the Sevier River in Utah Territory, and the report was quite current that they were murdered by the Indians; subsequently at a session of the Grand Jury in Juab County, Utah Territory, Hon. John F. Kinney presiding, twenty-six Indians of the Parvanto Tribe were indicted for the said murder, and by some arrangement between Col. E. J. Steptoe of the U. S. Army and Kanash the chief of the Parvanto Tribe, eight Indians (some of whom were squaws, and one old blind Indian man) were put upon their trial for murder at Nephi City, and strange to say, a Mormon Jury found the Indian warriors not guilty, and as against the old cripple and measurably blind Indians, three in number, found a verdict of manslaughter, and they were sentenced to three years imprisonment in the penitentiary of Utah, being the full length of time prescribed by (law) for such offences. These verdicts and the finding of the Juries under the law and the evidence, so wounded and mortified Judge Kinney, that he at once adjourned the court, unavoidably coming to the conclusion that there was false dealing somewhere, and in fact not only he, but Col. Steptoe, Gen. Holman the Government Attorney,

Hon. Garland Hurt the Indian Agent of the Territory, Capt. James B. Leach the Mail Contractor between San Diego in California and Salt Lake City, and Columbus L. Craig, all of whom were cognizant of the influence brought to bear on the trial, arrived irresistibly at the conclusion that the Indians were found not guilty by order of the Church, and that Dimick B. Huntington, an Indian interpreter and spiritual Brother-in-Law of Gov. Brigham Young, was the man who bore the decree and order of the church to the Jury, who implicitly found the verdict according to the mandates of the church, as is now the universal rule and order of Jury trials "in the peaceful valley of the mountains."

At the November term of my Court, held at Fillmore City, in the year 1855, one Levi Abrams, a Jewish Mormon, was put upon his trial for the wilful and unprovoked murder of Toube, a favorite warrior of the Parvante tribe; and during that trial much was said by both Indian and white witnesses relative to the murder of Capt. Gunnison and his party, which raised strong presumptions in my mind that certain white men were particeps criminis to that cruel murder, but not wholly conclusive. In this case the Jury, true to the Law of the church and basely false to the Law of the land, found Abrams not guilty. At the same term of the court, a favorite Indian warrior of Governor Young, by the name of Encis, was put upon trial for the murder of Capt. Gunnison and others, to which I particularly allude in this letter, and at this time and upon this trial, I became convinced beyond the possibility of a doubt, that the whole affair was a deep and maturely laid plan to murder the whole party of Engineers or Surveyors, and charge the murder upon the Indians, who, by the way, have the credit for killing a great many persons.

In the trial of the warrior Eneis, the evidence disclosed the fact that he was the property of Governor Young, that he could speak English quite fluently, and that when he left the city of Salt Lake, he went under the order of Gov. Young and the church.

Again, it was repeatedly proven that Eneis was in company with several white men on the day before the murder, and that they were all on their way to the Engineer's camp.

Again, it was proven on the same trial by a number of Indian witnesses, that only four shots were fired by the Indians; and that by order and direction of the Mormons, the Indians sprang out of the ambush, where they lay disguised during the night before the firing, which occurred about sunrise in the morning, and went across the river to scalp and otherwise maltreat the men in their agonies of death, but more particularly to serve the Mormon who fell in the fight, provided he was not fatally wounded, and told the Indians how they could recognize the Mormon from the Americans, which was by certain peculiar marks on the garment which he wore next his body. But the poor fellow, with the other eight, had received a fatal shot, and died on the ground with his priestly robe worn next his body. The white men were so accurately described that any one acquainted with the principal men of the Mormon church, could quite readily select the men as described by old Pareshont and Heap or Elk, as well as several others equally as honest and intelligent, who were the principal witnesses in behalf of the Government. And right here I have no hesitation in saying who some of them are and were, and this I do, for the benefit of those men, who may go to Utah as appointees under the present Administration, viz.: Wm. A. Hickman, Anson Call, Alexander McRay, Ephraim Hanks, James Cummings, Edwin D. Woolley, George Peacock, Levi Abrams and ——— Bronson, all of whom are in good fellowship and standing to this day in the church. And although the evidence on behalf of the Gov^t against Eneis was clear and conclusive, and no rebutting evidence, the Mormon Jury, true to the order of the Holy Priesthood, found a verdict of Not Guilty.

And here, my dear friend, painful and revolting as it is, the true history of that sad scene, requires me to say that the evidence disclosed the fact that several Indian warriors crossed the Sevier river, immediately after seeing that they had accomplished the work for which they were set apart, and proceeded to cut off the legs and arms of the men while in the agonies of death; also, to scalp them, and then rifle their pockets of their contents, and take off their clothes and put them on themselves; and that Ensis, the then prisoner at the bar, cut Capt. Gunnison's body open and took out his heart while he was yet alive, and the heart so full of blood that it bounded on the ground after being taken out; and not content with this, they cut out his tongue and otherwise cut and mangled his body. True it is, my dear friend, I know that this dark and bloody picture will prostrate every nerve of your tender frame, and painful and heart-sickening as it is to me to think of, to alone pen anything in connection with that revolting murder, but duty to you, duty to the country, duty to a broken and violated law, duty to bleeding and down-trodden humanity, duty to a correct history in connection with the dark and bloody code of the order of the High Priesthood of the Utah Mormons, and above all, duty to the fair name and reputation of a brother officer, engaged in the faithful discharge of his duty, and one who fell in the noon-day of life at the hands of an organized band of systematic pirates, robbers and murderers, and whose blood yet cries to Heaven for a witness to attest in thunder tones the dread but sad and solemn truth connected with his tragic fate, all seem to require that when I answer his wife, the companion of his youth, who so naturally applies to the man above all others possessed of the legal truths connected with this history, that I should tell them precisely as they are, and not suppress any part thereof. I can well imagine, madam, your long suffering and anxieties relative to the death of your husband, and I most truly assure you that your conclusions relative to his death were well founded.

I leave you and all others to conclude whether I am not fully justified in my conviction in the premises, and whether I could rationally have come to any other conclusion than the one to which I here refer, as well as in my letter of resignation to Attorney-General Black.

With an ardent desire that you may live to a ripe old age, enjoy all the blessings which this life can afford, and above all, in that list of blessings, good health, live to see the day when the foul stain of Mormon oppression and tyranny shall be effectually checked in this our happy country, your husband's untimely death vindicated by the courts and laws of the land, and after death in that Grand Lodge above, be re-united to the partner and companion of your youth,

I now remain, dear Madam,

Your friend and ob't servant,

W. W. DRUMMOND.

THE "LADY ÉLGIN" DISASTER. THRILLING NARRATIVE.

One of the most interesting personal accounts of the disaster yet given is that of Mr. H. W. Gunnison, who was eleven hours in the water. Mr. Gunnison undoubtedly owes his life to the cool deliberation and presence of mind which his narrative shows that he possessed throughout the terrible ordeal. Before the boat went down he went around among his acquaintances, shook hands and bid them good-bye. He advised all, and especially the military, to disencumber themselves of all articles that would add to their weight, and to avoid clinging to each other when in the water. He says:

"I removed everything from my pockets of any weight that would encumber me at all, having a gold watch, keys, knife, money, &c., and threw them overboard, and had nothing on now but my pantaloons and shirt. . . . I then attempted to kick a door off the captain's state-room, but being bare-footed, failed, and then went into the same state-room, and found nothing but a bureau, from which I took a small drawer for my support.

"As soon as the crash took place there was a very general out-cry, especially female voices. I ran and sprang as far as possible into the lake with the bureau drawer in my hands. I was drawn down a considerable depth by the whirl occasioned by the sinking of the vessel. A moment after rising to the top, and having time to draw a single breath, I was drawn under again, when the drawer was forced from my hand by the action of the water. On coming to the surface the second time, I seized hold of a scantling and a small box that were floating around me. . . .

“The storm raged with great fury, and continuous thunder, and almost incessant lightning, and the rain pouring down in torrents. The lightning gave a sort of purple glare to the lake, and the human faces that were visible around me, as the persons were struggling for life. During these gleams the faces of different ones were distinctly visible for some distance, and for a few moments were quite numerous in my immediate vicinity, but disappeared rapidly. The first scenes of strangling or drowning seemed to be followed by convulsive struggles and sharp shrieks, as they threw up their hands and sank.”

Mr. G. conversed with all that were near him, striving to cheer them up. For himself, he appears to have been perfectly cheerful, until his companions one by one had gone to the bottom, and he found himself on the waste of water alone.

“I now felt a powerful feeling of loneliness, as there was no other person within hailing distance as far as I could judge. By this time I had picked up a door and short plank, and one or two pieces of boards, which sustained me very comfortably, as the sea at this time was not very rough, compared with what it was afterwards. . . . Towards daylight an old felt hat drifted along by my little raft, which I seized hold of and soon after I got hold of a narrow strip of board which I also retained with the idea of using them after daylight as a signal to attract attention to any effort made to rescue me.

“After day had fully dawned, and I discovered the great distance from shore and the increased fury of the storm, I gave up all hopes of a rescue, and threw my hat and stick away. About this time the difficulty of holding on to the two or three pieces that I had, was such that I gave up every support but a piece of two inch pine plank, about six feet by fourteen inches, which was my entire support for the next four or five hours. As symptoms of cramp or chills appeared, I exerted myself by occasional efforts at swimming, with the help of the plank.”

At length he came across some persons in one of the steamer's boats, who invited him to come on board. The boat was bottom upward, and feeling that he had not sufficient strength to hold on, he declined. He says :

“We exchanged some messages to be delivered by each, to our friends, in case either survived.

and the boat presenting more surface to the wind drifted rapidly past me and in a short time was out of sight. About 7 or 8 o'clock the wind veered round from the east to the north-east, and increased to a perfect hurricane, raising the sea till it rolled mountains high. I found that I could ride over these huge waves with comparative ease, by keeping myself nearly in a horizontal position. That if I let my feet drop they would be thrown forward of me, and throwing me upon my back and under the plank, which occurred on two or three occasions, when I came near drowning, and only recovered my position of my breast to the plank by the most terrible exertion.

“During the early part of my solitary trip I was sea-sick, and became very much exhausted from vomiting and retching. Occasionally I found an almost irresistible tendency to go to sleep, as I had slept but little the two nights preceding. The pain in my shoulders and neck from head and shoulders above the water, became intolerable, as I was not able for hours to make any material change in my position. I also felt very faint from exertion and hunger, and towards noon was fortunate enough to find two or three pieces of dried apples and one large fresh apple, which I got hold of after a ten minutes' struggle. My hands turned purple and became cramped so that I had almost lost the use of my fingers, and

I sustained myself upon the plank by hanging my arms over it, and resting upon my chest.

“About an hour before reaching the shore I was surrounded by a great deal of débris from the ship, and amongst the rest discovered an old ship plank about 16 or 18 feet long, with several long spikes in it, and one or two mortices. I felt that I could not hold to my old plank much longer, and that the other had appeared providentially and could hang my arms through the holes or around the spikes. A few minutes' swimming brought me alongside of it completely exhausted, and I seized hold of it and experienced great relief from the change.

“As I approached nearer and discovered the precipitous nature of the bank, which I should think to be forty feet high, and almost perpendicular, I could see no possible foundation for any hope of escape as the waves broke clear to the foot of the precipice. I reserved my strength as much as possible for the terrible struggle that I knew was inevitable. Shortly after entering the breakers, and when within a few rods of the shore, a sea capsized the plank, throwing me under it upon my back, with my right arm locked as in a vice between two spikes, leaving me with no earthly means of righting myself or power to keep my head above water. In a few moments' time I was nearly suffocated, but struggled with all the power I possessed, to free myself, and I attempted, with a death-struggle to break my arm, in hopes thereby it would relieve me from the horrible position I was in. Fortunately, however, the next sea changed our relative positions so as to enable me to release myself. The horrors of the struggle for life against the terrible force of the surf, during the few moments that followed, I cannot describe. I observed that I was moving in a current parallel with the shore, with greater rapidity than I was towards it. I saw several men who had let themselves down the bank, standing at the edge of the surf, prepared for my rescue.

“The first time I struck ground, I struck square on my feet, but was immediately carried back by a returning wave. The next breaker threw me forward heels over head against the bank, when I began to suffocate, and just then some man seized hold of me, and was dragged back a short distance with me. I soon felt three or four muscular hands about me, and felt that I was saved. A rope was immediately tied around me, under my arms, and I was hauled up the precipice and made to disgorge a considerable quantity of surplus water, and then carried to the nearest house, and kindly cared for.”

WHY HE TAKES THEM.

The flock stood waiting by the rapid river
And would not cross,
Although the shepherd kindly called them thither;
And banks of moss,

And fields of green, and verdant hills surrounded
The further shore;
The danger all their narrow vision bounded,
Of crossing o'er.

He stretched his kindly arms, and gently called them;
They would not heed;
The deep broad river's rapid stream appalled them,
Though pleasant mead

And mountain fair, beyond the darkling river,
Rose to their view,
And in the distance, bright, unfading ever,
Were pastures new.

The shepherd took a lamb, and safely bore it
Within his arms
To where the pastures brightly gleamed before it;
And all alarms

Were hushed. The mother heard its voice of pleading,
And, crossing o'er,
The flock behind her followed in her leading Unto the shore.

O, stricken hearts, all torn with grief, and bleeding,
A Saviour's voice
Ye would not hear, nor follow in his leading,
Of your own choice.

And so he who takes your lambs unto His keeping,
 That eyes all dim
 And dark with sorrow's clouds, and sad with weeping,
 May look to Him,

And see beyond the darkly rolling river
 Those gone before,
 And to the fields, with verdure green forever
 Cross safely o'er.

OBITUARY.

Died, at Boston, Mass., May 14, 1878, George W. Gunnison, aged 55 years and six days.

Mr. Gunnison was a native of Erie, born on the 8th of May, 1823, a son of the well known citizen, E. D. Gunnison, Esq. Developing at an early age a great fondness for books, his education was carefully attended to under Rev. Robert Reid, A. E. Foster, and James Park, until he reached the age of sixteen years, when he entered Jefferson College at Cannonsburgh. Here he found under the Presidency of Dr. Brown and in the companionship of the class, which then embraced Ulysses Mercur, now of Supreme Court; Milton T. Latham, formerly United States Senator of California; Judge Pershing, and others, a most attractive field for mental improvement. Graduating with honor, and in a measure thrown upon his own resources, Mr. Gunnison was from time to time engaged in the canal office at Erie and at Johnstown, and in other places as a clerk, and afterwards teaching at Lawrenceville, New Jersey, to aid him in the prosecution of his theological studies at Newton, Mass. Having completed these, he was ordained as a Baptist minister, and commenced his labors in Athol, Mass., and afterwards at Ann Arbor, Mich. He was afterwards Principal of a Seminary in Worcester, Mass., and President of a College in Iowa, where he located and seemingly intending to remain there permanently, he invested his means in a large body of lands in that State.

His parents, still surviving, and desiring his return to Erie, in 1856, he came back to Erie, where, with but little interruption, he remained until 1873, when he removed to Massachusetts, where he closed his career.

In culture and attainments Mr. Gunnison was far above the average — entering in early life the profession of the ministry, then of a teacher, he afterwards studied law, and was admitted to the Erie bar, in 1865, and for seven years practiced law in Erie.

Mr. Gunnison was an accomplished writer, and contributed frequently to the press. At the time of his death he was connected with the Watchman and Reflector, of Boston, one of the most influential papers in the Baptist denomination. In his local reminiscences he was exceedingly happy, and rendered essential service to our whole community. As one of our oldest and best known citizens, whose origin and family connections most specially connected him with Erie, all will feel that our community has met with a severe loss, and that a person of vigorous and cultured mind has been prematurely removed.
